Kandis and Daniel Mong

Couple wed in fall

Kandis Lovelace and Daniel Mong, Newnan, Ga., married at 11 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 25, 2004, at Something Special in Newnan.

Gary Gregg, uncle of the groom, performed the double-ring ceremony.

Gary and Linda Lovelace of Goodland are the bride's parents, and Jim and Janet Mong of Columbiana, Ohio, are the groom's. The bride was given in marriage by her parents.

She wore a satin, strapless, A-line dress with beading on the bodice and a chapel train. She carried three dozen different shades of cream roses in a hand-tied clutch bouquet.

Valarie Berry of Shawnee was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were sisters of the bride, Farrah Lovelace of Peachtree City, Ga., Hillary Lowery of Raeford, N.C., and Teneile Lovelace of Goodland.

The bridesmaids wore hunter green strapless, tea-length dresses with an ivory lace overlay and a hunter green ribbon around the waist. Their flowers were a mix of fall daisies and creamy roses in a nosegay bouquet.

Carl Long of Jacksonville, Fla., was the best man, and Robert

Belton of Syracuse, N.Y., was the groomsman. They wore black tuxedos with hunter green vests and Windsor ties.

The wedding was outdoors in the garden behind the annabellum house "Something Special." A reception was held in the house and the gardens.

The cake was three layers with off-white butter cream frosting and different shades of cream roses cascading from top to bottom.

The groom's cake was in the shape of an airplane, since both the bride and groom love the airline industry.

The centerpieces for the reception were large vases filled with fall daisies, greenery and gold fish. The groom surprised the bride with a horse and carriage ride around the city after the reception. That night, they flew to south Florida for their honeymoon.

The bride graduated from Goodland High School and Fort Hays State University. She is a flight attendant.

The groom graduated from South Range High School in North Lima, Ohio, and Youngstown State University. He is a pilot.
