Early detection of hearing loss gives benefits

DEARABBY: In a recent column, writers expressed concerns about early hearing screening for newborns and young children. Your readers should know that Early Hearing Detection and Intervention (known as the EHDI program) is a nationwide priority supported by several federal agencies, state governments, and most hospitals that offer obstetrics/delivery services.

We at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention are proud to be a part of this effort. We have long advocated screening to detect hearing loss. Early intervention gives children the best possible start in life.

Most states and territories have EHDI programs that support efforts to detect hearing loss in babies early. The foundation of the EHDI proensure that:

Babies are screened for hearing loss before 1 month of age (ideally before the baby leaves the hospital). Babies are referred for diagnostic hearing and medical evaluation before 3 months of age (if they do not pass the first screening or a rescreening).

Babies are enrolled in intervention services before 6 months of age if a hearing loss is identified.

The importance of early intervention cannot be overstated. Early detection and intervention help very young children develop vital communication skills that will last a lifegram is the 1-3-6 Plan, whose goals time, and maximize their potential for positive growth. — JOSE F. CORDERO, M.D., DIRECTOR, NATIONAL CENTER ON BIRTH DEFECTS AND DEVELOPMEN-TAL DISABILITIES

DEAR DR. CORDERO: Your letter will be of interest to parents-tobe, so thank you for taking the time to write. Readers, for more information on EHDI or how to contact your state or territorial EHDI program, visit the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention Web site: www.cdc.gov/ncbddd/ehdi.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married to "Jeremy" for four years. I thought we had a wonderful marriage. A few months ago, I had his cell phone records pulled because I suspected Jeremy was being deceit- Jeremy has many female friends who ful about the people who were paging him. I was shocked to discover that he had been in constant contact with the girl he had dated before me, and also another woman who is also married. Then I found out he had been out to dinner with both of them without my knowledge.

Jeremy swore to me that he would no longer have contact with either of them and said our marriage was more important than his "friendships." Because I no longer trusted him, I had his phone records pulled again; nothing has changed. He says he remains in contact with them just to be nice call the house, and it doesn't upset me because they speak to me as well. I feel so betrayed. Why would my husband destroy our marriage and constantly lie if he has no feelings for these other women? — HURTING IN NEW ORLEANS

Abby, I am not a jealous spouse.

DEAR HURTING: You're asking the wrong person. Only your husband can answer that question. A marriage without trust is no marriage at all, and it's important that you find out why he would jeopardize his relationship with you in order to maintain those friendships. Counseling for the two of you might be helpful but only if he's willing to work on this issue. You have my sympathy.
