Imel said the only issue the board could look at was if the land met the requirements for an industrial zone and if that was the best use of the land.

Butch Vandiver asked if the board could take the expected increase in traffic into account when considering the zoning change.

Board member Tom Stewart of Muller Grain said the traffic would only be taken into consideration if the roads were part of the city. "Neither road will handle that type of traffic," Vandiver said. "You will have to talk to the county," Stewart said.

"I work for the county," Vandiver said. "I know Road 14 is in the fiveyear plan, but it could be five years before it is brought up to handle this Justus said the rail cars would probably not be covered, but that before they continue with their would be up to the railroad, and there are regulations they have to meet.

and federal guidelines," he said. "That will probably be within the next 30 days.

"We want to be cleaner than the regulations, and added $1.6 million in environmental controls that are above the federal requirements."

Justus was asked how much coal would be kept on hand and how much the plant would use each day.

He said about 4,000 tons of coal would be on hand, and the plant would use about 290 tons a day. Vandiver asked if they could get a copy of the plans,

"Yes," Justus said, "after we file the final permit request in the next 10 days, it will be available through the state. We will publish a notice before the public hearing.'

Denise Floyd again asked that the zoning decision be delayed.

"This board can only consider the land within the city limits," Stewart replied. "There are going to be better places for your concerns to be heard.

We are required to make a recommendation. There is a back side, and that is the request has to go to the city commission with or without our recommendation. The final say is up to the city commission."

After the hearing, Imel made a motion to recommend the zoning change from residential to industrial. Stewart seconded the motion which passed 2-0. Riebel abstained.

The zoning recommendation will be on the city commission agenda for Tuesday, Sept. 6.
