

Kristi Shoff, a Relay for Life committee member, started lighting luminaries about 9 p.m.

Dustin Juleson strutted his stuff on the catwalk during the Tacky Queen Contest at 10:30 p.m. Friday.

Relay helps battle cancer

RELAY, from Page 1a

Yost Farm Supply teams won the contest.

At 2 a.m., organizers held a newspaper costume contest won by Kinsey Volk, 6, daughter of Leon and Mary Volk, and at 3 a.m. a jelly bean relay.

Amanda Amthor won the bubble gum contest at 4 a.m.

The closing ceremony named the top individual earners.

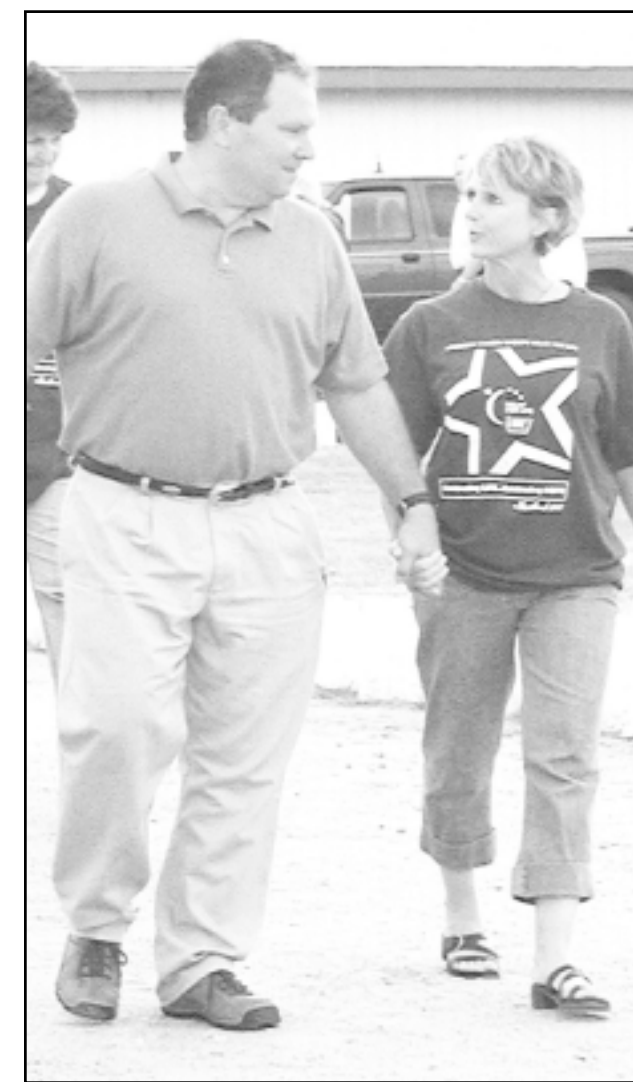

Kathy Schermerhorn of the Paw Wash team was first, with Janda

Linin of Butterfly Babes coming in second.

The top team earnings came in from the Butterfly Babes sponsored by Nelson Harvesting.

"It think it went very well," said Shoff. "We just appreciate all the help the community gave us. It was a pretty awesome thing."

The Goodland Kiwanis Club served food, offering hamburgers and hot dogs from 5 p.m. to 11 a.m. at the 4-H Building, and the Knights of Columbus served pancakes from 5 to 8 a.m.

Micki Scherling (above right), a cancer survivor, walked hand in hand with her husband and caregiver, Dane, for a special lap around the track during the Relay for Life on Friday. Shelly Thompson (right) on the Bankwest team tied a bright yellowish-green sash around a team member's arm.

Photos by Tom Betz and Kathryn Burke
The Goodland Star-News

