

VFW auxilliary plans projects, reports 58 paid

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars held its August meeting at 5:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 4.

Nine members were present. President Brenda Frankenfeld presided.

Iris Schoepner reported that 58 members have paid their dues for 2006.

Dues may be paid any time before the first of the year.

Members are encouraged to ask others to join.

The Ninth District mid-summer meeting was held Sunday, July 24, in Victoria.

At this time, programs were explained for the upcoming year.

While all programs fit into community service, some programs are emphasized.

The auxiliary is encouraged to work on projects for hospital and rehabilitation (for veterans and their families); legislation and Political Action Committee; national home in Eaton Rapids, Mich., for children and spouses of veterans who need a place to stay; youth activities; and promotion of the buddy poppy program.

If there are families (spouses, children) of service members currently serving in the Middle East, the auxiliary would like to help them with their special needs.

Call Rita Erickson at 899-6160 if you know someone who fits this category.

Rita also has the pattern for the Christmas items for the Veterans Administration hospitals.

If you would like to sew some of these, please contact her.

The VFW is banding together to show support for the troops.

Red wristbands are available to show your support. They are $3 each or two for $5.

If you prefer to show your support in another way, the auxiliary encourages you to wear red on Fridays or to wear a buddy poppy every day.

The poppies are made by veterans in hospitals and are symbolic of the suffering that veterans around the world have endured.

Money was donated to Matt Rohr for his flag pole project as an Eagle Scout.

The auxiliary is delivering Meals on Wheels this month.

The auxiliary will serve sandwiches to motorcycle riders Wednesday while they are on their way to the National Veterans of Foreign Wars Convention in Salt Lake City.

The riders are part of the VanderClute/Dickerson Memorial run.

Money collected from the run will be donated to the Fisher Houses.

Because members of the military and their families are stationed worldwide and must often travel great distances for specialized medical care, Fisher House Foundation donates "comfort homes" built on the grounds of major military and Veterans Administration medical centers.

These homes enable family members to be close to a loved one at the most stressful, during the hospitalization for an unexpected illness, disease or injury.

Leona Washburn, Ninth District president, will be making her inspection of the Goodland auxiliary at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 4.

Death of founder mourned

Dame Cicely Saunders, a nurse, social worker and doctor regarded as the founder of the modern hospice movement, and a pioneer in the field of palliative care, died peacefully Thursday, July 14, at St. Christopher's Hospice in London.

Saunders founded the hospice, regarded as the birthplace of the modern hospice movement, in 1967. It was the first to link expert pain and symptom control, compassionate care, teaching and clinical research. Saunders dedicated her life and professional work to alleviating the pain and suffering of the dying.

That first hospice provided a model of care that gave birth to one of the most significant movements of the late 20th century in the United States.

So often, patients and families have been told that "there was nothing more that could be done," a statement that Saunders refused to accept. Throughout her time at St. Christopher's, her watchword was "there is so much more to be done."

Her guiding principle was: "To cure sometimes, but to comfort always."

"Dame Cicely's vision and work has transformed the care of the dying and the practice of medicine in the UK and throughout the world," said Barbara Monroe, chief executive officer of St. Christopher's. "She is an inspiration to us all. We had been caring for Dame Cicely at St. Christopher's Hospice as a patient for some time. We will miss her very much. Her influence will carry on around the world."

A nurse during World War II, Saunders later became a social worker and then went on to medical school. As a doctor, she felt she could make the greatest impact on improving the culture of care for people at the end of life. She emphasized the importance of listening to the patient.

The recipient of numerous awards and honors, she was made a Dame of the British Empire in 1980.

In 1987, she was appointed to the Order of Merit by Queen Elizabeth II. Limited to only 24 persons, this is the highest honor the monarch can bestow.

"The world is a better place because of Cicely Saunders," said Stephen Connor, vice president of Access for End-of-Life Care, Research and International Development at the National Hospice and Palliative Care Organization. "Few people can go to their rest having done more to relieve suffering and to advance compassion in the world than Dame Saunders."

"Dame Cicely was a true pioneer in our field, and through her work has fundamentally changed the care dying people receive throughout the world," said J. Donald Schumacher, president and chief executive officer of the National Hospice.

Hospices in the United States cared for almost one million patients last year. Saunders' work improved the end-of-life experience, allowing people to die with dignity and compassion, and for families to receive much needed support.

Hospice Services board, staff, and volunteers extend our deepest sympathies to her family, friends, and colleagues the world over and honor her for her special gifts and contributions that improved the way we live and die.

"You matter to the last moment of your life," Saunders said, "and we will do all we can, not only to help you die peacefully, but to live until you die."
