Pioneer Park
Pioneer Park, which started as a drainage project, expanded to included benches, a gazebo, a paved path and landscaping as part of a new entrance to Goodland.
On the corner of Cherry and Business US 24, the south eastside of the park, a bricked planter is topped off with a sign welcoming people to Goodland.
A black metal fence behind the signs extends past the bricks.
Matching brick was used around the landscaping, including trees and shrubs.
Buffalo grass was planted and a drip system for watering trees and shrubs installed.
A cement hike-and-bike path was laid around the park and benches were set up in several locations.
The project was paid for with the city, state and federal money, and some donations by private individuals and community organizations.
