Mom has her own life

DEAR ABBY: I think you were a bit harsh regarding the mother-in-law of "Forgotten in Idaho." You called her "flawed and self-centered" because she has refused to visit her son and his family during the last five years. (Apparently she went once, while her husband was still living.)

I'm 73, and can't travel comfortably for a number of physical reasons I don't caretosharewithmychildren. Ialsohave a full life with my friends, volunteer work, plus e-mails and phone contact with all of my four children, six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Being with a large group - even family — for more than a few hours, especially after a tiring trip, takes a physical toll on me. I never seem able to take my medicines on time.

Idon'tfeelI'mselfish,nordomychildren, if I don't choose to visit them at their homes. They visit me when they can, and we always have a good time. I accept them and their chosen lifestyles; they accept my preferences without my having to give them a detailed explanation.

You were wrong to call the woman "self-centered and flawed." Perhaps it's the son and daughter-in-law who are selfishandself-centered to expect his mother to conform to their wishes. I'll bet you get quite a few women challenging your answer. — LEE B. IN SANTA BAR-

TUESDAY EVENING

BARA DEAR LEE: You're right. I got blasted. Not only have I been flogged with wet noodles, I'm drenched in marinara sauce. Here's a "taste": DEAR ABBY: Flawed? "Flawed' because she doesn't care to make trips to Idaho? That lady has a life of her own, forcrying outloud. Lether live it! If she's likemostwomenourage, it's the first time in her life she comes first instead of the kids. Apparently she's active and healthy. She certainly isn't "flawed," as you as-

I'm just short of 75, and let me tell you, about 21/2 hours with the little ones and I'm ready to go home. I am not alone in that feeling, and none of us consider ourselves "flawed." Bad choice of words, my dear. — ANN F., JOLIET, ILL.

DEARABBY: You owe that senior an apology for the harsh criticism when she didnothing wrong. Many single women her age are demanding of their children. They should be proud and happy she is doing well and enjoying what could be the last 10 years of her life. Grandmoth-erlyfeelingscome in our 40s and 50s. By our 70s, we have great-grandchildren and, trust me, enjoying them from a far is sufficient. Nature meant those final years to finally bring some enjoyment in life from OUR choice of recreation - not ourchildren's. If not now, when? - AN-OTHER INDEPENDENT SENIOR (75) WHO WILLALSO NEVER FLY

DEAR ABBY: I can relate to that mother-in-law because we have a similar problem. The "real" reason we don't visit our four grandchildren often is because they are undisciplined and have never been taught the difference between acceptable and unacceptable behavior. It's stressful and exhausting to be around them. Please remind parents that relatives do not want to be around undisciplined and poorly behaved children. - AT-LANTAGRANDPARENTS

DEARABBY: The mother-in-law is 72.Aspeopleage, they tend to be uncomfortable leaving their homes and routines. That's one reason why retirement communities and care facilities have structured activities and schedules. It gives the aging comfort to know what's coming.

Socutthat mother-in-law some slack. And tell "Idaho" she has two choices: Take it or leave it. — HEIKE IN ST. CLOUD, MINN.
