

Baseball party, Easter themes of ‘Creative Tables’

Whether you’re inviting a few friends to an April Fool’s bash, want to leave cookies for Santa that have panache or are planning a baseball party that’s “Out of the Park,” kids in the county’s 4-H clubs have some suggestions.

The champion and reserve champion Creative Table projects, along with two other blue-ribbon winners, are on display at the Carnegie Arts Center through Saturday.

The champion for ages 7 and 8 was Nolan Deeds with the “It’s Out of the Park!” baseball party with the featured recipe for Shortstop Hot Dogs and the “line up” of “Homerun” Baked Beans, “Field of Greens” Salad, “Full Count” Fruit Cocktail and for the seventh inning stretch, “Rockies” Road Ice Cream.

The table is covered with a grass-green carpet, the place setting includes home plate and there are peanuts scattered on the table.

There was a tie for reserve champion among 7-and-8-year-olds, an April Fool’s party by Jonah McClung and “Tea Time” by Sarah Johnson. April Fool’s Cupcakes and Banana Poppy Seed Muffins were their featured recipes.

Chloe Goodwin was the champion among 9-and-10-year-olds with “Hop on Over to My Easter Egg Hunt Lunch.” Her table was set with spring-green dishes, jelly bean “eggs,” a basket of eggs and a bunny. Her featured recipe is “Easter Ham Salad Sandwiches.”

A “Western Roundup” by Jessica Johnson was the reserve champion for 9-and-10-year-olds. Her table was set with blue campfire-style dishes, a black chili pot and a bandanna napkin, circled by a lasso border. Her featured recipe was Tumbleweed Stew.

Sydney Winston had the champion table for 11-and-12-year-olds with the “Winston’s Fourth of July Barbecue.” The table was set in red, white and blue, and Macaroni Salad was the featured recipe.

Katelyn Coon’s very purple “K-State Tailgate Party” was the reserve champion for 11-and-12-year-olds. Her featured recipe was “Wildcat Sugar Cookies.”

Blue ribbon winners were “Milk and Cookies for Santa” by Chantel Coates and a treasure-chest theme by Holly Wilkening. Their featured recipes were Chocolate Chip Cookies and “Buried Treasure Cupcakes.”

“Take Me Out to the Ballgame” would be appropriate dinner music when you sit down to Nolan Deeds’ 4-H Creative Tables project (above). Chloe Goodwin set an Easter luncheon table (top right) for her project. The champions and reserved champions for each age group and two other blue ribbon winners are on display at the Carnegie Arts Center through Saturday.

quilt guild news

The Prairie PieceMakers Quilt guild met on Thursday, March 9, and Cora House gave a program on the “Ives Color Wheel.”

Members refreshed their knowledge of using color to compliment their quilts.

A work day was planned to work on the “Critical Care Quilts” for the hospital’s critical care wing. Members will meet to purchase fabric, and a work day is planned for Saturday, April 22.

For the club’s regular meeting, at 6 p.m. Thursday, Carol Tupper will give a demonstration on her Quilted Flannel Coat.

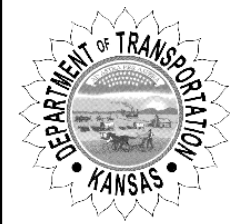

Members will then have an opportunity to construct their own coat.

Members were reminded to start planning for the quilt show that the club will hold on Saturday, Sept. 23, during the Flatlander Fall Festival.

Guest are always welcome to attend the meetings.
