Students do fall cleanup

Learning to volunteer

By Pat Schiefen

The Goodland Star-News

Goodland High School students were out cleaning yards and helping people get rid of unwanted items for a community service project on Wednesday.

The Sherman County commissioners waived dumping fees to help out. The city had a truck and front-end loader out picking up yard debris. To get the work done, people called the high school.

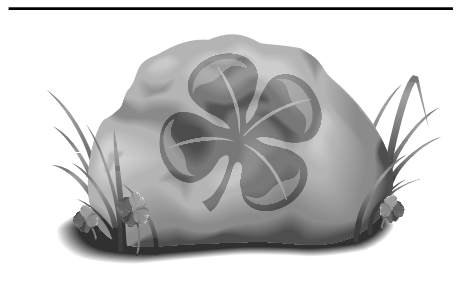

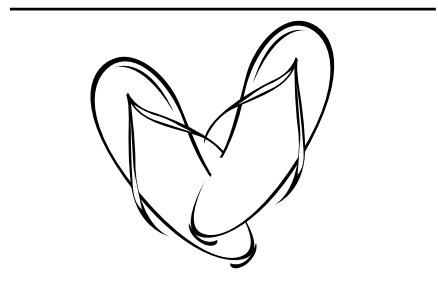

"I like it and its nice to help the community," said Precious Gonzales, a freshman at the school who was raking at 1109 Walnut.

"I think helping cleanup someone's yard and helping the community is a good thing," Taylor Tomsic, a freshman, said.

"It's fun helping out the community," said sophomore Starla Kear. "It's the first time I've done this."

"I always do this every year at home," said Danny Aguirre, a sophomore, who was raking.
