Dorothea Lotker

Helen Dorothea Elizabeth "Dottie" Lotker, 87, a long-time promoter of Oberlin community projects, died Monday, April 30, 2012, at the Cedar Living Center in Oberlin.

She was born Sept. 20, 1924, in Plainfield, N.J., the daughter of Eric and Edith (Williams) Forrester. During high school, she belonged to the Episcopal Church's youth group, Girls Friendly, which held dances at the church for young sailors. She met Floyd Lotker Jr., who was in boot camp on Hoffman Island, N.Y., at a church dance in the fall of 1941.

She graduated from Berringer High School in 1942. She wanted to become a nurse, but since she was only 17, she was too young, so she took a job as a chemical lab assistant for the American Cynamid Chemical Co. of Bound Brook, N.J.

She and Floyd married June 16, 1943. He returned to sea duty and was later assigned as a navigational instructor at Officer Candidate School in New London, Conn. After the war ended, the couple moved to Oberlin and took over the family farm two miles west of town, which had been homesteaded by his grandfather in 1879.

Over the next 70 years, the couple worked on many civic projects in Oberlin. She was active in the PRIDE program, helped raise money for the Pioneer Family statue, worked to get the downtown canopies, was a driving force behind the gazebo in Centennial Park, helped start the annual Thanksgiving meal at St. John's Lutheran Church, helped write the Decatur County History Book, promoted the Oberlin swimming pool and hospital, and volunteered at Decatur County's Home-Owned Carnival.

She was a 4-H leader for 20 years and taught Sunday School. She had a love for arts and crafts and enjoyed doing ceramics, painting, knitting and sewing. Later in life, she enjoyed genealogy and wrote and printed four family history books.

She was a member of St. Alban's Episcopal Church in McCook, the Monday Evening Club for 65 years, the Order of the Eastern Star for 60 years, the Oberlin Arts Club and the Decatur County Hospital Guild.

Survivors include her husband, Oberlin; a son, Floyd "Skip" (Soma) Lotker III, Redondo Beach, Calif.; three daughters, Sherri Shuler and Laurie (James) Wasson, Oberlin, and Jackie (Lynn) Lotker-Myers Alliance, Neb.; two brothers, Roland (Marge) Forrester, Indianapolis, Ind., and Bruce Forrester, Bonita Springs, Fla.; a sister, Elaine Smith, Fort Myers, Fla.; three half-sisters, Shiela Dalsted, Miles City, Mont.; Pam Hammel, Fort Worth, and Bonnie Kraenzel, Hebron, N.D.; 10 grandchildren; 15 great-grandchildren; and four great-great-grandchildren.
