The Lyle community joined others in receiving a wonderful long-awaited rain. Amounts varied from 1-1/2 in. to 2 inches. It came in rain-fall and drizzle and every drop seemed to soak in. We hope for more in the coming week. The electricity service was off several hours during the rainstorm in part of the neighborhood.

The United Methodist Women canceled their Wednesday afternoon meeting because of the muddy roads.

Mrs. Margaret Magers accompanied Charlie and Judy Easton to Lexington, Neb., Sunday where they met their daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Joni Killen, Madison and Cody, of Tampa, Fla. They had been to Sidney, Neb., to visit Joni's dad, John Guy and his family, and were en route to Omaha to visit friends. A highlight of the trip for Madison and Cody was finding a pile of snow which had been piled up earlier when the roads were cleared in Lexington and they were able to make snow balls for a snow ball fight. They all stayed at a motel in Lexington and had a good visit.

After the Floridians left, the Eastons and Mrs. Magers decided to visit the KRVN radio station where they received a heart-felt welcome and were shown all around. They returned home Monday.

A fire on Sunday which began near the Cozad place on the Sappa got out of hand and burned quite a lot of pasture and creek before fire departments from Norcat, Lebanon, Neb., and Oberlin were able to put it out.

Rex and Merle Cozad, Hutchinson, were at the David Cozad home in Norton earlier in the week-end and Rex had the misfortune to wreck his car when he came out to the Lyle neighborhood to look after farm interests. Although his car was totaled, he only received some broken ribs. Their son, David, returned them to their home.

Larry and Rick Van Otterloo visited Mrs. Marguerite Fullerton Saturday, and returned on Sunday morning to take her to church services at Lyle. She then accompanied them to Oberlin where they enjoyed a corned beef and cabbage dinner at the Gene and Laurene Van Otterloos home. Other guests were Larry Jr. Van Otterloo, and Mary Zodrow. Gene and Laurene Van Otterloo returned Mrs. Fullerton to her home Sunday evening.

John and Helen Helm were Sunday dinner guests of Florence and Jerry Uerling in Indianola, Neb., for the traditional corned beef and cabbage.

Mrs. Kathy Van Meter had lunch in Quinter Tuesday with her son and family, Tim and Jolene Nejd, and Clinton. She then drove to Ellis to visit a sister-in-law, Alice Gabel, who resides in the Good Samaritan Home there and also visited friends in WaKeeney. She returned to Quinter that evening and attended the vigil ceremonies for a long-time family friend, Maurice Martin, 63, with Tim and Jolene. Tim had worked for Mr. Martin when he was young.

Some Lyle residents may remember Mr. Martin as he and his crew did the dirt work when the bridge over Sappa Creek was erected on the Lyle road.

Mrs. Veda Wood accompanied Dwight Wood and Teresa Reves to Oberlin for doctors' appointments. They visited at the John and Carol Moye home. Mrs. Moye kept Devon and Skyler Cooper, of Hays, several days while their mother, Andrea Cooper, had surgery.

The same week, Mrs. Wood's son-in-law, Larry McNames, of Grinnell, slipped on the ice and received a broken ankle. He teaches school at Garden City.

Mrs. Denise Guy, Katie, Kori, Kursten, and Kendra, Abilene, came to the Margaret Magers home Wednesday evening to spend spring break. On Thursday evening they all visited the goat swing at the Powell picnic grounds and succeeded in getting muddy. They then visited Mrs. Marguerite Fullerton at her home. The Guy family went to Oberlin Friday to visit Grandma Mae Guy.

Josh and Mathew Schwab visited their grandparents, Pat and Bill Schwab, during spring break. Grandma Pat made them a large container of "puppy chow" to take home to Samantha and Austin.

Mike Helm was at the John Helm home Monday to do some yard chores before the rain began. He got a little damp before he finished.
