Five wrestlers make state

Oberlin sent 12 kid wrestlers to the district meet and five won the chance to go on to state.

Kansas is divided into four districts for kid wrestling. Oberlin is in District IV, which had its meet Saturday in Great Bend.

To reach districts, the wrestlers had to qualify at the sub-district tournaments. Sub-district winners went on to district meets and the top four wrestlers in each age/weight category at districts advance to the state meet in Topeka this weekend.

The boys will wrestle in 16-man brackets made up of wrestlers from all four districts.

Advancing to the state meet will be Clay Andersen, Aaron Helm, Breck Simonsson, Terry Urban and Gannon Reichert.

Wrestling at districts were:
 • Age 10 and under, 73 pounds, Andersen, second.

Boy gets third at state meet

Dayton Dreher of Oberlin took third in the age 6 and under Kid Wrestling State Championship in Ottawa last weekend. Dreher won five matches and lost one in his third-place finish in the 58 pound category.

The tournament was only for those 6 and under, with 240 Kansas wrestlers competing. Dayton's parents are Joe and Melissa Dreher of Oberlin. His dad is the Decatur Community High wrestling coach.

- Age 12 and under, 130 pounds, Nathan Simonsson, sixth.
- Age 14 and under, 80 pounds, Helm, second.
- Age 14 and under, 95 pounds, B. Simonsson, fourth.
- Age 14 and under, 120 pounds, Jared Marcuson, fifth.
- Age 14 and under, 165 pounds, Urban, third.
- Age 16 and under, 205 pounds, Colt Diederich, sixth.
- Age 16 and under, 160 pounds, Reichert, second.

State champ does well in college

By CYNTHIA HAYNES
 A former Oberlin wrestling champion has kept up his winning ways while at Colby Community College.

Bryan Miller, who graduated from Decatur Community High School in 2001, placed at state all four years in high school, taking first at 135 pounds as a junior, second at 130 pounds as a sophomore, third at 125 pounds as a freshman and third at 135 as a senior.

Earlier this month, Miller helped the Colby team to second place at the National Junior College Athletic Association tournament in Rochester, Minn.

Miller came in second at 141 pounds, losing his final round to Chris Nedens of North Idaho, which took first in the tournament. As his junior college eligibility ends, Miller was named an All-American wrestler by the association for the second year.

Colby Assistant Wrestling Coach Eric Toraya said that Miller came in fourth out of four wrestlers when vying for a place in the national tournament, then got a wild card bid. He is only the second wild card wrestler to get to the final round in tournament history, Coach Toraya said.

Miller has been captain of the wrestling team and placed first in the Omaha Open, the Colby Tournament of Champions and the Worthington Open and second in the Kearney (Neb.) Open. He was the winner of the Wayne Williams Award for most outstanding performance last year, given by the college and Colby booster clubs.

Last year, he placed fifth in the junior college championship and fifth in the Senior Nationals of the High School All-American Tournament in Rochester.

Miller gives Oberlin wrestling coach Joe Dreher credit for a lot of his success. He said that what he learned from Coach Dreher in the four years he wrestled in Oberlin and from Coach Toraya helped him have a winning record.

Colby Head Coach Steve Lampe is responsible for much of his mental training, he said. "Having Coach Dreher all four years was nice," Miller said. "Even after wrestling, he helped me with where to go to college."

Miller received a "full-ride" wrestling scholarship from Colby and said that he is glad he went there. He said that he looked at other schools but Colby was the best fit for him.

"It was nice to start out at Colby," he said. "It really helped me become a student athlete."

The folks at Colby were interested in both his abilities as an athlete and his academics, he said. Miller has a 3.3 grade point average in college.

While wrestling season is over at the college, it isn't over for Miller, who wrestles all year long. He wants to do some free-style wrestling and will be working with high school athletes, including a camp at Elkhart High School in June.

"I guess it's my camp," he said. "The coach there said I could do what I wanted."

After graduating from Colby this spring, Miller wants to continue his education with a major in criminal justice. He's just not sure where.

He said he is looking at Fort Hays State University in Kansas, the University of Nebraska at Kearney, and schools in North Carolina or northern Illinois.

He also isn't sure if he will continue to wrestle.

"It's really hard sometimes," he said.

Last year he wrestled at 133 pounds and making weight was always a struggle, since college rules are more stringent than high school. Wrestlers weigh in one hour before dual meets and two hours before tournaments, with no leeway in the weights.

On the other hand, he said, he has enjoyed the opportunity to travel all over the country with the wrestling team, many of whom are from other states and other countries.

Miller is the son of Carolyn Miller of Oberlin and Jerry Miller of Gem.
