After you have make extra food to serve as "planned-overs," keep these tips in mind:

Freeze foods in portion sizes you'll need for future meals. For example, if there are two in your family and you each eat a cup of rice for a meal, freeze in two-cup por-

Some common foods generally cited as NOT freezing well include:

Cooked eggs.

- Cooked "chunks" of potatoes (mashed and twice-baked may freeze satisfactorily).
- · Custards and cream puddings, by themselves or in pies.
  - Potato salad.
  - Pasta.

freezing.

- Raw, watery vegetables such as lettuce, cucumbers and radishes; tomatoes, celery and cabbage might be satisfactory frozen as an ingredient in an already-cooked dish such as a soup.
- Yogurt and sour cream.
- Mayonnaise may separate during freezing and thawing.
- Sauces and gravies thickened with flour or cornstarch may separate and break down when frozen. Fried foods may lose their crisp-
- Crumb toppings, such as on casseroles, may become soggy after

Sometimes you will see these foods in a commercially frozen version of some of the above, because food companies have equipment that freezes quickly and helps retain quality better. Also, various ingredients generally unavailable to home cooks are used to help prevent frozen foods from breaking down.

frozen "planned-overs," experiment by freezing a small amount of that food first. If you're satisfied with the results, prepare extra for freezing when you make the recipe

As a general rule, foods with a high water content such as the vegetables on our list do not freeze well. The water in these foods expands during freezing and breaks down their structure, making them mushy when thawed. This is why frozen fruit packages often advise eating the fruit while still slightly frozen.

To hasten future thawing of the food you are preparing to store, make it into a thinner, flattened shape and place in freezer bags or freezer foil

A rounded shape takes longer to thaw through to the middle. Flatter packages also will stack better in your freezer.

Remember to cool foods to refrigerator temperature before putting them in your freezer.

Pack food fairly tight into containers or press out excess air when packing food in bags. For most foods, it's helpful to leave a little space (about 1/2 inch) between the food and the freezer package closure to allow for expansion on the county extension office, 475

Frozen food remains safe indefinitely at zero degrees Fahrenheit but the quality deteriorates the longer it's stored. "Freezer burn," when the food surface appears light-colored and dried out, occurs when moisture or the surface evaporates. Proper cooling, air removal, moisture-vapor resistant packaging, a tight seal and an appropriate length of storage help prevent freezer burn. While a food with freezer burn is safe to eat the quality is lower.

Label each package with the type and amount of contents and the date it was frozen. Use the dates to assure products are eaten while the quality is still good. If you're freezing several packages at once, leave a little space between them so air can circulate freely and they freeze faster. Move them closer together when they're

'You Can, I Can'

$By \, Rev. \, Royce \, Leitner \, of \, Assembly \, of \, God \, Church, Oberlin$

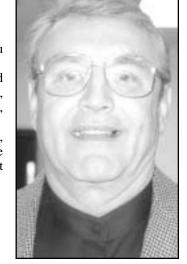

When the New Year comes around, we have to straighten it out. Jesus has overcome this world, so you resolve to change something in our lives, especially the things that are harming us. Well! I have some good news for you!

The Good News is, God has a plan for us, if we'll just believe in Him. In this Good News, which is the Gospel, it states that, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." (Philippians 4:13) So you can, I can, do all things in Jesus.

If your life is messed up, Jesus can, you can't, loved us." (Romans 8:37)

Every person has a plan in detail of what we could do in Him! But somehow, we choose the wrong plan, mostly ours; our willpower, our piloting our lives, which in most cases are of ruin, and mistakes.

The Good News is that if we turn it over to Jesus, and follow Him, the Bible states that, "Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that
