Normal High: 57
Normal Low: 28

Sunset: 6:55 to 7:00 P.M.

This weekend's .25" to .50" rain and yesterday's 8" to 12" of snow was a blessing. The County picked up 1" to 2" of precipitation at a very critical time for the 2006 wheat crop and pastures. Today will be cold with the snow on the ground and Wednesday a quick disturbance could give us an additional inch or two of snow. Thursday the skies start to clear and Friday, Saturday and Sunday highs in the 50's will melt a good chunk of the snow on the ground.
