Corrections

The "People in Our Community" column in the July 5 issue of The Oberlin Herald incorrectly reported that Delores Zdrov was in the McCook hospital. She has not been in the hospital, but has been staying with her grandson and his wife, Robert and Annick Zdrov, who live in McCook.

In the July 12 edition of The Herald, the weather from the July 5 issue was printed again, instead of the correct weather. This was a proofing error. The correct weather for last week appears on Page 2A today.

Normal High: 91
Normal Low: 62

Sunset: 9:05 to 9:08 P.M.

The 100 degree heat and dry weather will continue through Thursday. This 5 to 7 day period of extreme heat, for sure has taken up what moisture that was available in the ground. Computer models are suggesting a break in the heat starting Friday and continuing into next week. If the indicated cool front weakens the ridge overhead and stalls in the area we should see 88-93 degree temperatures and evening or overnight chances for rain each day! Let's cross our fingers.
