

Wild week precedes Homecoming activities

Queen, king lead festivities

Heather Williams and Nolan May were crowned 2006 Homecoming queen and king at the Homecoming assembly on Friday, Sept. 29.

The football players chose the queen candidates, and the volleyball players chose the king candidates. Then all the students voted.

This year the king was announced at the assembly. In the past, he has been named at the dance. Because of the volleyball tournament on Saturday, the dance was moved to Saturday night rather than after the football game Friday. The student council decided to announce the king Friday.

Queen candidates were Emmie Pauls, Sarah Murray, Heather Williams, Lauren Fortin, and Whitnee Ashley. King candidates were Nolan May, Jobey Black, Garrit Peters, Breck Simonsson, Kurt Olson and Kyle Glodt.

The 10-year queen was Becky (Uehlin) Smith. The athlete of the past was Paul Kitzke.

Flower girl was Lindsey Eskew, and crown bearer was Andrew Juenemann. Andrew is the son of Gary and Jennifer Juenemann, and Mr. Kitzke said during his speech Jennifer was the 10-year queen at his Homecoming in 1996.

Master of ceremonies was Seth Ritter, student council officer.

The junior class won the float competition with its Donkey Kong theme.

PALM FRONDS IN HAND, junior Lacie Alstrom worked on a coconut tree for the class float.

Windows, float show games

By AMIE RITTER

Video games was the theme for the windows and floats. Each class decorated a window in the cafeteria and a float in the parade.

The senior window theme was Super Mario Brothers. The poster said, "Stompin' da Buffalo," "Racking Up the Points."

The juniors used Donkey Kong for their windows, which read "It's on Like Devil Kong."

The sophomores featured Packman. "Eating up the competition".

Window decorating was a learning experience for the freshmen.

Their first window decorations consisted of a paper with freshmen signatures and notes. On their second attempt, they used the theme of "Madden NWKL 2010."

OPPOSITE DAY brought Shane Hollars (above) to school dressed as a nerd while sophomore Jay Wessel came dressed in "her" best dress, beads and head scarf.

By HEATHER WILLIAMS

Do you have a magazine you would like to renew? Would you like to subscribe to a magazine or buy a CD or computer software?

If you answer yes to either of these questions, be sure to contact a student at Decatur Community High School.

Students at the high school are selling magazines and all sorts of good stuff, through Oct. 16, to raise money for our school. Some of the money raised will go to each class, and some to the senior high student council.
