

AT ST. JOHN'S LUTHERAN CHURCH, Rielly Rittmann (above) opened up paint to work on her banner during Vacation Bible School last week. Nehemiah Langness (below) prepared craft items in the preschool room.

Kids learn, play games at Bible camp

Kids of all ages learned about Joseph last week at the St. John's Lutheran Vacation Bible School.

Around 35 grade-school-age kids and preschoolers attended the session, called Joseph's Epic Adventure, Monday through Friday at the church.

The older kids, said Kim Langness, made banners for themselves during craft time and cross necklaces that they sent to a day care center in Thailand as a mission outreach. The kids brought in offerings throughout the week and will send $28.74 to the center as well.

The preschoolers, she said, also did crafts, including making pictures and a lot of gluing.

Every day the kids got to act out Bible stories centered around Joseph, said Mrs. Langness. The kids also learned about Jesus' father through the stories as well as learning some Bible verses.

They also went outside and played kickball and enjoyed the playground equipment.

Mrs. Langness said older kids helped with the crafts and Bible story section of the school.

All in all, she said, it was a good week.

WITH A RUNNING START, Grant Gilliam (above) swung his leg to kick a ball during a kickball game at Vacation Bible School while Dayton Kempf (right) made a cross necklace for a child in a day care center in Thailand.

