March is Save Your Vision Month

— The Doctors and Staff of LIFETIME EYECARE would like to focus this month on Healthy Eating Habits and Healthy Eyes

More than 22 million Americans suffer from cataracts and age-related macular degeneration (AMD), the two leading causes of visual loss and blindness.

Studies have suggested that by eating foods rich in six nutrients, you can protect your eyes from disease. In other words, healthy eating habits can mean healthy eyes.

Lutein and zeaxanthin are found together in many food sources. Dark green leafy vegetables are the primary sources of lutein and zeaxanthin (kale, collard greens and spinach), but they are also present in lesser amounts in other colorful fruits and vegetables, such as broccoli, orange peppers, corn, peas, persimmons and tangerines.

Good food sources of zinc include meat, liver, shellfish, milk, whole grains and wheat germ.

Eating healthy for your eyes could be the most promising means of protecting your eyes from AMD and cataracts. In addition, planning menus rich in the nutrients described above can mean better overall health for you and your family. Consider eating eye healthy foods and gain benefits for your whole body.

And remember: Your eyes are often the best window to your health. Some systemic and chronic diseases can often be detected by your eye doctor during a comprehensive eye exam. Schedule your regular comprehensive eye exam today.

Betacarotene is present in dark green leafy vegetables (spinach!), deep orange or yellow fruits and vegetables (cantaloupe, mangos, apricots, peaches, sweet potatoes and carrots) and fortified cereals.
