Two arrested after altercation

Oberlin Police officers arrested two 18-year-old Oberlin men after they were called to the Highway Camper Park around 11:42 p.m. Thursday on a report that two people had been beaten.

The victims were a 16-year-old boy and Anthony Gonzales, 19, said Police Chief Wade Lockhart. Mr. Gonzales is renting a trailer at the park, he said.

Chief Lockhart said Patrolman Brad Burmaster saw one of the suspects walking on Hall Street around 2:36 a.m. Cory Tillman, 18, turned himself in, was arrested for aggravated battery, aggravated burglary and criminal damage and was taken to jail.

The following day, said Chief Lockhart, the second suspect, Sean Ybarra, 18, turned himself in to the police department and was arrested for the same charges.

District Magistrate Judge John Bremer saw both men that afternoon. Mr. Tillman was charged with criminal damage to property, two counts of aggravated battery and aggravated burglary. Mr. Ybarra was charged with one count of aggravated battery, misdemeanor battery and aggravated burglary.

The chief said police are looking for a third man involved in the fight, but he hasn't been charged yet.

Both Mr. Tillman and Mr. Ybarra were still in jail on Monday. Mr. Gonzales, who was charged with driving while under suspension, also was in jail.

Board approves handbook changes

The Oberlin School Board approved the changes to the handbook at the junior/senior high school last Monday, including adding a $5 towel fee for students taking gym classes.

Principal Charlie Haag said the fee would help cover replacing towels and washing them every day.

Mr. Haag said there were several changes to the handbook, including:

- Changing the wording from seniors to students for those allowed two days each year to visit colleges.
- Changed wording so students with in-school suspension can't receive perfect attendance awards.

• Students who ride the bus will have to make up time missed in class the next day if parents can't be contacted the same day.

• Students who are tardy more than three times, whether excused or not, have to make up time with the teacher.

• Students are considered absent, instead of tardy, if they arrive to class 20 minutes into the class.

• Hair must be kept out of students' eyes as part of the dress code.

• No cell phones can be used during the school day or at lunch time.

• The district isn't responsible for lost or stolen cell phones. This part, said Mr. Haag is already in the handbook, but will now appear in bold. This applies to school trips, too, he said.

• Students who live within walking distance of the school can walk home for lunch. They can't walk home, get in their car and go get something to eat and then come back to school, Mr. Haag said. Parents have to sign a permission slip allowing a student to walk home to eat.

• All students have to take one unit of fine arts to graduate.
