Second graders write poems about autumn

Second graders at Oberlin Elementary School put together nouns, verbs and adjectives as they built their fall poems.

Each year, the second graders write about fall and things that remind them of that time of year. Part of the exercise includes coming up with descriptive words and action words.

These poems were written by Kathy Tacha's class:
