Jacque Boultinghouse has been an active business woman, greeting customers for many years at Karls Store in Selden.

She is presently serving as the interim director for Decatur County Emergency Management, along with serving for Sheridan County in the same position.

She graduated from Decatur Community High School in Oberlin, attended McCook Community College, where she graduated with an Associate of Arts in Criminal Justice and Elementary Education. She attended Marymount College in Salina, taking sociology classes. She later attended Colby Community College, where she took government and American History classes. Since that time she has been helping in Karls Store.

"I have served as a Selden City Council member for over 20 years and started as the youngest and first female on the council," she said.

She was elected mayor of Selden in 2007. She is also an active member of the Sheridan

County Economic Development Commission, Working Together Sheridan organization and is on the Emergency Medical Service in Sheridan County.

"Over the years," she said, "among projects that I have played a part in bringing to our community include: restarting kids softball, cable television, and the Selden Public Library."

"I have also assisted in bringing to Selden an ambulance service with our crew being a part of the Sheridan County Emergency Medical Service, and also helped promote the new Selden Community Center."

The active business woman added, "During my leisure time I like to play cards and go to movies. Vicky Ray and I frequently play cards at the American Legion in Rexford or if there are any good movies close, we go. In the spring months Vicky will go with me a lot when the weather has the possibility for producing tornadoes or severe thunderstorms."

"I think that can be considered a form of entertainment!" she concluded.
