Students and faculty welcome new teacher

By TOBY PETERS
When he went to school, he was just Josh. Now in the same school he graduated from, he is Mr. Williby. New industrial arts teacher Josh Williby graduated from Decatur Community High School in 2000. He is married to Kari Stanley, another DCHS graduate, and they have a seven-month-old son, Gage. He is the son of Doug and Shayla Williby. He has a twin brother, Justin and a sister, Cammi Dickinson. Mr. Williby's hobbies include wood-working, hence the Industrial Arts teaching degree. He also enjoys hunting, fishing and golf. His college life included school at Goodland, Colby, and Fort Hays

State where he graduated in July of 2009.

Some of his former teachers are now colleagues, and when asked how he feels about that, he said, "Good, I feel very welcomed, and it's good to be back in the community."

How has our school changed in the last ten years? "The overall size is very different. My class graduated with over 40 students. And if you wanted to park in the parking lot, you had to come to school early."

His friends in high school were his brother Justin, Carl Larson, Tanner Lincoln, Bart Macfee, and Matt Farr.

Students work together to clean up fall leaves

Sixty-seven high school students worked with fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth graders to clean up yards around town for the annual Halloween Clean-Up.

Decatur Community High School students chose Jessica Fredrickson as the Clean-Up General, and she, along with captains Kortnie Fisher, Ashley Horton, Chance Marble, and Nolan Wasson, organized the event, which dates back to the 1930s

The Freshman Class had the highest participation rate with 20 of the 27 participating or 74 percent.

Eighteen sophomores helped out at Halloween Clean-up, or 69 percent of the class. The Junior Class had 52 percent participation or 15 out of the 29, followed closely by the Senior Class with 50 percent.

Superintendent Duane Dorshorst treated the 67 students with donuts and juice last week and thanked them for the leadership and hard work.

Each group of students also had two adult supervisors. This included Mark Bricker, Caleb Howland, Terry Ream, Jeff Jones, J.D. Johnson, Tim Breth, Jason Ketterl and Kenny Black.

Great Halloween fun

Music, costumes, super heroes, artwork — all at a band concert. Yes, a band concert.

The Decatur Community High School band performed its first concert on Monday, Nov. 2. Throughout the concert, a slide show created by different band members was projected onto a screen. While the band played the theme songs from Batman, Superman, and the Addams Family, the audience could watch images from the movies.

During the song "Headless Horseman," eight original watercolors painted by sophomore band member Amanda Marshall were shown on the screen. Amanda painted the watercolors for her Independent Art Class.

At intermission, a costume contest was held for anyone dressed in costume, including the majority of the band. In the adult competition, Debbie Rief as a whoopee cushion won first place. Troy Juenemann as a three-headed man won the child category.

Spanish classes take dance lessons

By CAROL BROWN
The Spanish classes traveled to Hays High School on Wednesday, Oct. 28, to attend Latin dance lessons. The students had two one-hour lessons. During the first lesson they learned the Cha-Cha and in the second session they were taught the Mambo.

Between the two sessions they enjoyed lunch at Gutierrez Restaurant.

This is the second year the classes have had the opportunity to participate in the lessons. It was a fun day with a great group of students.

Students participating in the dance lessons were Dalton Jones, Serena Stacy, Megan Wentz, Tracy Hoppal, Carrissa Wentz, Katie Glading, Cody Kane, Brandi Diederich, Darian Bose, Kaylee May, Sam Wrinkles, Samantha Anderson, Kade Brown, Dakota Cook, Miki Dorshorst, Nolan Henningson, Megan Huntley, Samantha Meitl, Jon Rorick, Matthew Wittman, Cody Wurm, Matthew Glading, Mika Hackney, Matthew Helm, Conner McHugh, Dannay Rhein, Darbi Rouse, Cassidy Shields, Tyler Shields and Cheyanne Soderlund.
