Robert Groneweg said the store has two full-time employees and two part-time besides himself. Tim Gish is a full-time serviceman, while Melissa Chambers works full-time in the store, Judy Cochran is a part-time book-keeper and Heather McDougal works part-time in the store.

The store carries Whirlpool, Maytag and other lines of appliances, barbecue cookers and Tempstar air conditioners. The servicemen repair all kinds of refrigeration equipment, heating and air conditioning units and appliances.

SUBWAY RESTAURANT

Oberlin's Subway restaurant opened May 29, 2009. Ryan Leitner is manager of the national chain store, which says it offers a healthy alternative to regular fast food.

"Subway is a nice, clean place with fresh food," he said.

The store is open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., seven days a week. It offers all kinds of subs, salads and flat-bread sandwiches, plus bottled water, juices, cookies, chips and some fruits.

Mr. Leitner said Subway has eight part-time employees. He and his wife Janna have two children and are expecting their third. Mrs. Leitner also works at Subway.

The regional manager over the store is Dave Kern of Colby.

YORK STREET MARKET

Judy Ploussard opened her business, York Street Market, on Nov. 1. She sells antiques and silk flower arrangements in the Business Entrepreneurial Enhancement Center at 101 S. Penn Ave.

She had been doing professional quilting at her home under the name York Street Studio, she said, and the new shop is an extension of that.

She also sells antiques on consignment. She said that if a customer has a favorite vase at home, they can bring it in to her and she will create an arrangement for it.

Besides antiques and silks, she carries Cabin Cream soap products, which are handmade goat-milk soaps and lotions made by her daughter, Tammy Musgrave of Ong, Neb.

The market is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday or by appointment at 470-1711.
