Up in Smoke festival ready with barbecue and blues

By STEPHANIE DeCAMP

sdecamp@nwkansas.com

Just in time to wrap up the summer comes the fifth annual "Up in Smoke on the Black Water BBQ Cook-off," which will last all day Saturday around the Sappa Park shelter organizer Cindy Lincoln, and they will be cooking all day, handing out free samples along the way. The object is to see who can smoke, sauce and secure the title of the best barbecue in town. Categories are the "people's choice" award, said Mrs. ribs, pork butt, brisket, beans, open class Lincoln. The meat will be put out for sup-of the event will be provided by two bands, Seventeen teams have registered, said Highway 385 and Last Gasp, and singer/ songwriter Lucas Maddy from 3 p.m. to to be handed out so that folks can vote on per at 5:30 p.m., she said, and all donations Mrs. Lincoln said that the blues portion will go to the Decatur County Rural Fire

The teams will have their cooking assessed by 12 judges over about 2 1/2 hours, for their supper. You can sign up at the gate Mrs. Lincoln said. The Up in Smoke com- to sing for a free meal."

At 3:30 p.m., the free samples will start mittee bought the meat here for the cooks, who will be competing for prizes including a Traeger grill. There will also be the chance to sign up for a trip for two to Las Vegas.

"People should bring their lawn chairs," Mrs. Lincoln said, "and plan to stay all day. There will be children's activities, and we're doing a thing where people can sing

Mrs. Lincoln said that the fire department will be there with a truck, so there shouldn't be any problems with the county burn ban. She couldn't say how much money she expects they'll raise, but she guessed it would be a lot.

"It will run in the thousands, for sure," she said. "We have a lot of sponsorship from area businesses, and a lot of people look forward to this every year."

City, county agree on free landfill day

By STEPHANIE DeCAMP

sdecamp@nwkansas.com

In a move to encourage people to clean up their property, Decatur County commissioners and the City of Oberlin agreed at a county meeting last Tuesday to let people bring their trash to the county landfill for free during the first week of

For six days, from Monday, Oct. 1, to Saturday, Oct. 6, people can bring any matter of trash – from old tires and branches to furniture and other junk – to the landfill, five miles east of Oberlin on U.S. 36. The county has had a free dump week in the spring before, but never in the fall, officials said.

"(The usual fee of) $15 doesn't sound like a lot if you have a pickup and all," said City Administrator Karen Larson, "but if you don't have a pickup or a truck, it is a lot."

Road Supervisor Tim Stallman, who was at the meeting, estimated that the county would lose between $2,500 and $3,500 in revenue from the week. The city may help by paying some of that back to the county, but no deal had been struck.

"We've done it before and haven't gotten a big response," said Mrs. Larson, "but now with the code enforcement officer, I think we'll do more. And this time around, they may have had more time to get things cleaned up and organized. I've got people calling from out of town, saying they're coming to help their parents clean up, and asking if they can burn trash and things. But the burn ban is still up."

The decision to have a second week of free dumping this year (the first, in May, and happens every year) was made by the commissioners and Mrs. Larson at the commissioners' meeting.

"It's a city and county collaboration to improve how things look around here," said Commissioner Stan McEvoy, "and hopefully make it easier for some folks to clean

The decision came about two weeks after the last City Council meeting on Aug. 16, when 40 to 50 people showed up to protest the way the city and its code enforcement officer are handling the ordinance dealing with blighted property.

Pigskin Pick'em gets surprise start

With several upsets in the first games of the year, it wasn't any wonder that no one got everything right for the first round of The Oberlin Herald's Pigskin Pick'em

Only two people believed that Oberlin could beat Cambridge, Neb. Rusty Addleman of Oberlin was one of them, and since he only missed one game (Colby over Oakley), he is our first-place winner this week, winning $15 in scrip.

The other person who had faith in the home team is on the home team and helped the Red Devils down the Trojans. However, he tied with five 51-9. other people with two misses. None of them believed that Norton would beat Smith Center, but the closest to the tie-breaker score was Ryan Leitner, Oberlin. He gets the $10 second-place prize. Cheri Kastens, Herndon, came in third and wins

Others missing only two games 13. were Jordan Davenport, Kelly Brown, Tom Martin and Tyler

At the end of the contest, the contestant picking the most correct games will receive a trophy and $50 in scrip money.

Winnings can be spent only at the sponsors: Ward Drug Store, the LandMark Inn, Fredrickson Insurance Agency, Decatur Co-op, Hansen Mueller, Creative Collision and The Herald.

Scores of this week's games:

• KU over South Dakota State,

• Oberlin over Cambridge, 26-0.

• K-State over Missouri State,

• Nebraska over Southern Mississippi, 49-20.

• St. Francis over Holyoke, Colo,

• Colby over Oakley, 20-15.

• Atwood over Wheatland/Grinnell, 40-14.

• Goodland over Hugoton, 24-

• Norton over Smith Center, 34-13 in the tie breaker.

Rolling up summer

ROLLING AN UMBRELLA stand from the deck, Andrew Dempewolf helped clean up the Oberlin Swimming Pool for winter on Monday. - Herald staff photo by Cynthia Haynes

Pool group organizes talks

BY CYNTHIA HAYNES

c.haynes@nwkansas.com

Organizers Susan May and Shayla Williby gave the group the talks they plan to give to clubs and other members get the information needed to make a good presentation and answer questions from the audience.

came up with other groups they could approach. is invited.

Most of the time, the committee members will go in pairs so that one can explain the need for a new pool The Oberlin Pool Project committee met last and what the new facility will look like. The other Wednesday night to discuss getting members out to will explain why a sales tax is the best method of speak to as many groups in town as possible. paying for a pool and what it will cost the average consumer..

The group also discussed the best way to get groups in Oberlin. They offered to help any of the more people registered to vote, especially those who might be inclined to vote in favor of the sales tax and the pool. The group will meet again at 7 p.m. Tuesday at The committee members looked over the list of the Business Entrepreneurial Enhancement Center. groups which have asked for a presentation, and All meetings are open to the public and everyone

Hospital chief will try to get doctors

By STEPHANIE DeCAMP sdecamp@nwkansas.com

Decatur Health Systems has brought back Charlie Myers, a former hospital chief who raised his kids here, to be the interim chief executive as outgoing Administrator Lynn Doeden had her last day

Mr. Myers said he lived in Oberlin from 1985 to 1993. He left the hospital here in 1993 to take another job with Banner Health Systems, which had managed the hospital for many years. Banner itself left in 2002. ending 50 years of managing the facility, and the hospital began to run itself. Mr. Myers said he stayed with Banner for about 25 years, living in Wyoming and Nevada before retiring in Custer, S.D. last year.

His biggest challenge?

"We have to recruit doctors," Mr. Myers said. "We need to have fulltime physicians. We have full-time midlevels, but it would be helpful to have a physician. That's the priority I'm working on now."

He said that he's happy to see how the hospital has maintained support through the years.

"Decatur Health Systems was created when Banner left about 10 years ago," he said. "For a facility to continue to function and grow is pretty remarkable. I think we have our work cut out for us now, but that's what every rural hospital is facing these days.'

Mr. Myers said he will work at recruiting doctors as long as he is

"We visited with someone last week," he said, "and will continue to visit with physicians and midlevel medical personnel. We will get providers in the community, and I will stay until there is a CEO that's good for the community. I think the expectation is for three months, but I just need to be here until the board hires another CEO.

"I will get my wife Mary down here to visit at some point in time," he added, "She's working at a school district up where we live, so we have to figure out when to get her here, but she clearly wants to come

Four percent raise for county employees may be included in 2013 budget

By STEPHANIE DeCAMP

sdecamp@nwkansas.com County commissioners are trying to work a 4 percent raise for county employees into the 2013 budget, while still lowering property taxes and bringing down the county's property tax levy.

The budget must be completed and turned in to the state by Oct.

While nothing has been decided, Commissioner Stan McEvoy said at the county meeting last Tuesday that 4 percent was the starting figure they are working with. According to an article in The Oberlin Herald, county employees have not received new pool, if voters approve it, could a raise since they got 2 1/2 percent affect county revenues with the 2011 budget, and before that, it had been three years.

No spending cuts will need to be made to compensate for the raises, commissioners said, since the the commissioners more money to work with while also cutting taxes. has not been determined, since no decision has yet been made.

Another concern at last Tuesday's budget review was how the increased sales tax for the city's Director Marilyn Gamblin that flu

"Our sales tax revenues could go down," Mr. McEvoy said. "People may not buy in the county if they know they can get a lower sales tax outside of it. And any revenue gencounty's valuation went up, giving erated from the increase would go to the city, not us, if it passes.'

The county generated $183,000 in The total dollar amount of the raises, sales-tax revenue last year, and has said County Clerk Colleen Geihsler, pulled in $96,000 this year to date, said Treasurer Jean Ann Hale. In other business, the commis-

• Heard a report from Health

newspaper, she said, for dates and the burn ban in place. The county is west is still burnt and dry.

Prime

Rib Dinner

shots will be coming in shortly. pretty much divided in half as far as People should keep an eye out in the greening up, said Road Supervisor recovering from the drought, he Tim Stallman. The east side is looktimes when they will be available. ing better after recent rain, but the said, recommending that the burn ban stay in place. Commissioners agreed unanimously.

Silent

Casino

Night

9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Free Shuttle Bus Service

For more information contact: MARION CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

620-382-3425

www.marionks.com

Immediate Opening

Hospital Administrator/CEO in Oberlin, Kansas. Salary is negotiable. CEO for Decatur Health Systems (DHS), which comprises a 24-bed critical access hospital, 37-bed-long-term care unit, a physicians' clinic, 12-unit independent-living center and a home health agency in Northwest Kansas.

The position is an immediate opening for a professional administrator who manages DHS in accordance with state and local regulations.

Job requirements: BA or equivalent minimum, Master in Health Administration preferred, 3 years experience in health administration, sound decision-making skills, organizational experience in operations and planning, experience in fiscal management and budgets, recruitment and retention skills necessary. DHS is a equal opportunity employer.

Dance the night away to the tunes of Mobile Music Express

Get your tickets early for $30 per person. Ticket prices change on Sept. 15 with an extremely limited number at the door.

For ticket information call by Sept. 15 Andrea at 470-1119 Jolene 470-7475 Kelsey (308) 737-7893

For the latest info like our facebook page: Decatur County Firefighter's Ball